PRACTICUM: The Ecumenical Reconstruction of the Local Church.

- a PRACTICUM aimed at training the emerging clergy to enable the laity toward the intellectual, social and religious renewal of the Church on the local level.
- a PRACTICUM of two weeks of intensive structured study and work to provide the methods of seminars, workshops and art form conversations and the practices of time design, relevant discipline and religious mode.
- a PRACTICUM taught on invitation from theological seminaries by Ecumenical Institute faculty, usually for academic credit granted by the sponsoring institution.
- a PRACTICUM scheduled for this summer (registration open to any seminary student) at St. Thomas Seminary (Roman Catholic) in Denver with credit given by Iliff School of Theology (Methodist) from June 13 through 27, 1970.
- a PRACTICUM being scheduled in additional North American seminaries in the fall, winter and spring quarters of 1970-71.

Train your heart to govern as spacious an arena as it can. Encompass through two centuries, through three, through ten, until slowly the world begins to breathe within you, the embattled ones begin to be enlightened, to unite in your heart and to acknowledge themselves as brothers!
