

The Unique Role of the Sectors

The unique role of the Local sector is to ground ones engagements in a specified geographical area. Of the voluntary is to point the way and entice people into caring for others. Of the Public is to establish overall guideline and policies to allow humanness to be guarded. Of the Private is to carry the sustaining life functions for all.

The unique role today of the public sector is to regulate and order society. The unique role of the private sector today is to produce goods. The unique role of the voluntary sector today is to provide services which are not offered by the public or private. The unique role of the local sector today is to provide a focus for solving a local problem.

The unique role today of the private sector is produce goods and services which employ people so that a profit is earned. The unique role today of the public sector is to protect society from external and internal exploitation. The unique role today of the voluntary sector is to feel in the gaps between the other sectors. The unique role today of the local sector is to assure that the economic, political, and cultural aspects of life are provided to local neighborhoods.

The unique role of the private sector is to create goods and services that society needs. The unique role of the public sector is to distribute and enforce the public's rights. The unique role of the voluntary sector is to provide the forum for cross-sector balanced functioning. The unique role of the local sector is to structure local core and celebrate human spirit.

The unique role of the local sector in society today is to provide means of participation and consensus building (at the most basic level) about the well-being of society. The unique role of the voluntary sector in society today is to hold creative accountability for the needs of society. The unique role of the public sector in society today is to protect the needs of its people. The private to provide adequate livelihood for its members.

The unique role of voluntary sector in our society is to respond structurally to gaps in services--needs not provided any other way. The private is economic--to provide opportunities for individuals and groups to make a profit on investments. Of the public is to regulate, control or provide services to citizens. Of the local is to respond to particular, limited situations of need.

The unique role of private sector is to care for the economic base in a way that honors and utilizes the shifting trends of history. The Public sector is to guard the participation and serve the common needs of a given population. The voluntary sector is to guard Human engagement and resource utilization while meeting the emerging needs of the society. The Local sector is to assure the quality control in human community of services provided and identify unmet needs.

Local - The final delivery when the action is. Public - Coordination which listens to the other three. Voluntary--special interests, energy for new and fun ideas. Private - the guts of making things work.

The role of the private sector is to provide for the self suffering of the community and nation. The role of the public sector is to ensure just priorities which provide for the communities well-being. The volunteer sector is to engage the gaps of the community and society. The local is all of the above.

The unique role of the local sector in society today is to care comprehensively for the basic needs of individuals as they show up in community. The unique role of the voluntary sector in society today is to ensure that the gaps in care structures not covered by or created by the public and private sectors are covered. The public sector in society today is to maintain care for resources held in common and relate to the global community. The private sector in society today is to create job and business relations in which each individual participates creatively.

The unique role today of the local sector in society is to actually implement the care and service needed in local community, bridging and linking the public and voluntary to do that, or filling gaps. The unique role today of the voluntary sector in society is to point out individual functions, needs and objectives of society and build structures to implement these goals, linking public/private to the local. The unique role today of the public sector in society is to establish common goals which over arches all four sectors, establishes the authority and structures to meet these goals. The unique role today of the private sector in society is to give the structure and dynamic to the actual process of resource allocations for human activity; and the provisions of the needed living resources for all the people to live, provisions of the opportunities to work for their own living resources individually.

The unique role of the voluntary sector in society today is to respond to social needs by co-ordinating resources from all sectors of society. The local sector in society today is to strengthen the community base in order to rebuild human community settings. The public sector in society is to interface support structures for all of society. The private sector is to coordinate and disseminate resources to benefit all of society.

The unique role of private sector is to provide a climate of trade and an economic share in society. The role of the voluntary sector is to fill in gaps of services delivery provided by public sector and to be innovative in creating other services. The local sector is to see that the local geography in society is served and maintained for Human participation. The public sector is to order and maintain a functioning, progressing human society.

The unique role today of the private sector is to provide the economic base for action to change the fundamental imbalance in justice to the peoples of the world. The voluntary sector is to provide a catalytic leadership and innovative ideas to change the fundamental imbalance in justice to the people of the world. The public sector is to provide rules and regulations to provide consistency in justice to the peoples of the world. The local sector is to provide the ideas to bring about (through effective method) to change the fundamental imbalance in justice to the world's people.

The unique role of the voluntary sector is to be the eyes and ears of society in seeing and hearing the emerging gaps in communal care and the hands to minister it while the larger community is becoming aware of them and restructuring to meet them. The public sector is to structure "societal" (i.e. conglomeration of individual--"private"--persons) in ways/according to understandings of how private persons (ontologically, zoologically, anthropologically--evolutionally) will presently tolerate. The unique role of the private sector is to transform foundational wealth into utilitarian forms and arrange distribution mechanism which motivate the intensification of that role. The local sector is to practically embody all the above.

The unique role today of the local sector is providing a focus for the creation of a 21st century global living environment. The voluntary sector is establishing relationships between public/private and local sectors which occasion profound engagement. The public sector is the judicious allocation of fiscal and natural resources toward overall development. The private sector is the development of new technological and natural resources for the future.

The unique role of the local is to hold accountable all other three sectors in the geography that is actually local. The voluntary is to bridge the gaps and create (be) the new care structures in society. The public is to enable creative dialogue between the voluntary and private. The private is to facilitate maximum interchange of goods, and human resources.

The unique role of the private is to provide goods and services for people. The public to provide and keep a livable environment for community. (Free from outside domination, free from destruction). Local to hold one and two accountable. Voluntary, to fill in the gap where the other fails to their job.

The unique role today of the private sector in society is: Controlling the instruments of productions and distribution of goods and services. The public sector in society is providing the ordering dynamic--laws, security, public services i.e. fire, police, transportation. The voluntary sector in society is staffing, core structures not provided otherwise. Local sector is to reappropriate responsibility for one's own destiny.

The unique role of the public sector in society is to order and coordinate all functions of society. The private is to enable the flourishing of individual initiative in the production and distribution of goods. The voluntary is to allow creativity in freedom from public order or economic incentive. The local is to foster the functioning of the other three sectors at the most basic individual level.

The unique role today of the local sector is rooting human civilization in concrete community. The voluntary is pioneering modes of human care, the public is enforcing social unity and the private is maximizing productive resource use.

The unique role today of the voluntary sector is to provide services not provided by other sectors--directly or by influencing other sectors.

Role of Private Sector is to provide employment etc. and development of mankind. of the Voluntary Sector is to fill the gap where the Private, Public, Local are left off. of Local is to formulate programs suitable to needs of mankind.

Private: provide service if it produces profit. Public: provide necessary services that are not profitable or should not be influenced by profit consideration. Local: Modify services in terms of local needs. Voluntary provide services not institutionalized elsewhere or not provided satisfactorily from other sources.

The function of the local is to provide for basic individual needs.

Volunteer: to provide means and ways of practical motivation for other sectors to enhance the creative edges of their roles in society. Local: to establish the care-structures and productivity of local communities. Private: to produce necessary goods and services with increased use of alternative modes of supply and production and work force. Public: to establish sound justice and protect innovative human experiments of the other sectors.

Unique functions: Private--Manufacture and deliver goods and services to insure livelihood of the people and the community. Public--Enabling decision making and regulation to insure order and well being of the population.

The unique role of the local sector today is to be engaged in a very particular hunk of geography care for that geography and the people in it. The unique role of the private sector is to enable the economic well-being of this continent. The unique role of the public sector is to maintain the structures.

Local--grounded in a local geographic community. Private--Initiates activities and industry for basic foundational living. Public--Works on behalf of a group of people which has elected or appointed it. Voluntary--Provides a service or benefit to its members/friends or those within its service area.

Unique role of the private sector today is to provide goods and services as demanded in the market place.

The unique role today of the private sector in society is to provide goods and services to society while providing opportunity for human engagement in the process. The unique role today of the public sector in society is to order and commonize the society by providing public institutions and processes. The unique role today of the voluntary sector in society is to identify the gaps not picked up by the private and public sectors and innovate new solutions. The unique role today of the local sector in society is to enable each individual in its area to be creatively engaged in his/her community.

Private: global resource utilization and forming global culture. Voluntary: networks of care/interface with public and private and local. Public: allocation/priority setting/enabling justice. Local: holding all sectors accountable for quality of life in that geography.

The unique role of the public is order. Private is productivity. Voluntary is care. Local is cohesion.

The unique role of local sector today is to bring together all the resources available to solve problems in a particular community. The unique role of the voluntary sector is to act as a funnel through which resources are provided to local communities. The unique of the public sector is to provide the mechanisms to hold society together across the various levels from local to global. The unique role of private sector is to provide the means to produce goods and services.

Private--Provide base of subsistence. Public--regulate/interest factions to procedure. Voluntary--provide human development. Maintain local environment quality and direction.

The function of the private role in society is to honor individual and corporate initiative. The function of the public role in society is to allow people to work together as a group. The function of the volunteer section in society is to give an opportunity for caring for each other. The function of the local sector in society is to make sure that local community happens.

Unique role of private sector is to provide goods and services. Unique role of the public sector is to maintain order. The Unique role of the voluntary sector is to sense and react to injustice. The unique role of the local sector is to enable the well being of its constituency.

Private: the producer and distributor of goods. Public: the symbolic lead and "order bringer" to all members of society. Voluntary: the one who fills in the "gaps" when public and private are not there. Local: the one who "better's" the street where you live.

The function of the Public sector is to guard the public welfare. The function of the Private sector is to develop the resources of any geography into needed and desired goods and services, and to enable their distribution to those with the needs and desires. The function of the voluntary sector is to see that the goods and services of the public and private sectors are produced and distributed equitably in relation to the real needs. The function of the local sector is to see that all of the goods and decisions and the gifts of the earth are appropriated responsibly by all the people.

The unique role of Private Sector: generate and sustain economic growth and personal excellence. Public Sector: discern and monitor policies and programs for the general social well being. Volunteer Sector: organize good willed people to care for the quality of the society. Local Sector: organize and sustain meaningful human community at the local level of society.

Private: Unique role today is to distribute resources to society. Public: Unique role today is to provide ordering regulations in society. Voluntary: Unique role today is to provide gap services not provided to the Local. Local: Unique role today is to provide comprehensive structural care for all its constituencies.

The unique role today of the Public Sector is to facilitate the declaration of present consensus behind major items of public policy. The unique role of the Private Sector is to provide a secure and ongoing means to earn and nurture a livelihood. The unique role of the Voluntary Sector is to discern the new, though latent, societal paradigms and to create prototype models to effectuate them. The unique role of the Local Sector is to provide a delimited place where the interaction of all societal structures can achieve relative balance, and thus provide a human environment.

The unique role today of the Local Sector is to work to provide safe better neighborhoods, working thru private, public and volunteer sectors as required. Volunteer: Work local sector to provide individuals with opportunities for the "better life"-- appealing to and challenging the private and public sectors as required. Public Sector: move sensitivity to needs of the public--less concern for self-preservation and job security. Private: more sensitivity to needs public--less selfishness of too much concern for profit--more involvement in community and encouragement of community involvement of employees.

Unique role of the VOLUNTEER sector today is to bridge the gaps among the other three.

Role of each sector is:

PUBLIC - regulate conflict of interest, provide security

PRIVATE - economic - provide and allocate goods, services and rewards

VOLUNTARY - fill in the gaps left by public and private

LOCAL - perform the 3 above at local level.

Unique role of the LOCAL is to provide local structures, run by, controlled by, and advised by that serve its local population

Unique role of the PUBLIC SECTOR is to provide an environment for productivity and innovation, and provide educational advantages.

Unique role of VOLUNTARY SECTOR is to provide innovative solutions for vacuums, the gaps that private and public sector have not taken responsibility for.

Unique role of the PRIVATE SECTOR is research and development of material goods and services that provide jobs and also better humanity.

Unique role today of the LOCAL SECTOR in society is discerning the needs/roles that the other sectors need to play in every local situation and holding those sectors accountable for their performance.

The unique role today of the VOLUNTARY SECTOR in society is to channel human resources to meet local needs - using financial resources from public and private sectors in the process.

Unique role of PRIVATE is to organize the economic inputs (capital, labor, technology, etc.) into forms that are economically productive - that provide goods, services and income that support the life of the whole society.

Unique role of PUBLIC today is to discern the public consensus as to what public services are required, and to organize their delivery directly or to financially underwrite their delivery through other sectors.

Unique role of VOLUNTARY is to provide the energy, drive and keep faith so that the others can function.

Unique role of PRIVATE is to expand its corporate consciousness to realize its responsibilities to community and to act upon those responsibilities.

LOCAL - to provide information about what is happening and needs to be done to the other three sectors.

PUBLIC is to devise means to deliver services in the most humanly efficient means.

LOCAL - insure care for every last citizen in a given neighborhood or community

VOLUNTARY is to create alternative approaches and pilot programs first for communities.

PRIVATE - is to generate capital and goods that enable society to function.

Function of the LOCAL SECTOR is to guard, care, engage people who inhabit a geographical unit that relate to a large unit.

Function of VOLUNTARY SECTOR - people who individually or corporately provide information, look for alternative methods, provide leadership for specific areas of engagement.

Function of PUBLIC is to activate decusuib najubg ub kicak scenes to care through structures for all by globalizing the potential.

Function of PRIVATE is to provide solid economic base, to provide work sites for local engagement.

The unique role of the PRIVATE SECTOR today is to allow individual decisions to be made about caring for society.

The unique role of the PUBLIC SECTOR is to collective decision making on a broad base.

The unique role of the VOLUNTARY sector is to call together groups and individuals with common interests to care for society.

The unique role of the LOCAL sector is to ensure that each individual is cared for.

The unique role today of the PRIVATE SECTOR in society is to provide the economic base for society in terms of jobs, production of goods and services.

The unique role today of the PUBLIC SECTOR is to provide broad services to all such as transportation, protection, external(military) and internal police, education and individual rights.

The unique role today of the VOLUNTARY SECTOR is to provide services to people that are not being done by the first two. Also to play an advocacy role for change protection of resources, rights, etc.

The unique role of the LOCAL SECTOR is to consider itself as a geographic entity and to organize, speak out and look after the peoples needs in its community.

Unique role today of the LOCAL SECTOR is to provide the sustaining, geographical relationship - where I "belong".

Unique role of VOLUNTARY is to create groupings that relate to issues not cared for by P/Priv.

Unique role of PUBLIC - legislate and monitor corporate well being.

Unique role of PRIVATE is provide continuous systems for vocations and jobs related to society needs and to deliver needed goods and services to communities.

The unique role of the PUBLIC sector today is to maintain stability.

The unique role of the PRIVATE sector today is to provide a path between exoectation and reality.

The unique role of the LOCAL sector today is to insure that noone's contribution is lost.

PUBLIC - is to guarantee equal access to opportunities and benefits within society.

PRIVATE - provide the basis for economic sustenance.

PUBLIC is to maintain order in society.

VOLUNTARY is to focus the efforts of concerned individuals.

LOCAL is to provide a place to live and be renewed.

PRIVATE - utilization of existing resources (natural, technological, human) toward the creation of new resources for the globe.

PUBLIC - distribution of resources and services to and on behalf of the other sectors.

VOLUNTARY - identify the gaps in delivery of resources and services to the local and fill those gaps and/or elicit the delivery from the public and private sectors.

LOCAL - eliciting the participation of every human being in society and insisting on adequate delivery of resources and services to each local situation.

LOCAL - be the base from which the public and private emerge, sustained by the voluntary.

VOLUNTARY is to beckon the public and private sector to care for the local.

PRIVATE is to deliver the services necessary for the structuring of the local to allow highest welfare to be achieved.

PUBLIC role is to order.